to be received. It is not practicable to commence this operation from the temporary location because of limited and unreliable power supply. It will be possible to start the above coverage before all construction and installation of equipment has been completed, however, If the teletype converters have not been received, a telegrapher can be borrowed from Cable and Wireless to send out copy over the private wire to Nicosia for dispatch to London.

3. Six additional monitors are to commence training on 10 January. As additional facilities become available and these monitors become sufficiently trained, an additional list of programs to be assumed will be submitted.

4. Your comments or approval are requested at the earliest practicable date.
